USA: EMPIRE OF DEATH

THE BRUTAL MURDER of 290 men, women and children by the United States in the Strait of Hormuz was yet another example of the barbarism of this Empire of Death.

Experts had repeatedly warned that the trigger-happy approach of the Yank forces in the crowded Gulf area would lead to disaster, but the U.S. hatred of the Islamic opponents of its global 'cultural' and economic dominance led to those warnings being ignored.

The mistaking of a large, slow civilian airliner for a small jet fighter travelling at great speed displays either incredible panic or incompetence, or it was a deliberate murderous attempt to provoke Iran into a massive confrontation which would give the U.S.A. the excuse to launch an all-out attack on Iran. Whichever is the truth, it shows that the Americans, through stupidity or design, are the greatest threat to world peace.

And it looks as though the Yanks haven't learnt their lesson. While the Pentagon tries vainly to win a propaganda victory by offering compensation to the families of the victims of U.S. terrorism, the U.S. military are busy with plans to launch massive strikes against Iran at the slightest excuse. While back in the States opinion polls show that the majority of the American public think that the captain of the U.S.S. Vincennes was right to shoot down the Airbus.

This brutal arrogance typifies America. Just look at a few other examples:

• When the Yanks launched their murderous bombing raid against civilian targets in Libya, they demanded and got permission to use bases in Britain. They never managed to provide a shred of evidence to justify the attack and they never apologized for flattening schools and hospitals instead of military targets.

• The commanders of the U.S. occupation forces in Britain know that the personnel under their command are deeply involved in importing deadly drugs on a massive scale (See report page 3). But no effective action is taken because it would bring too much bad publicity. The same reason leads them to hush up the growing AIDS problem among U.S. servicemen in Europe, which poses a deadly threat to the young people encouraged to collaborate with the Yanks.

• The "most dangerous structure in the North Sea", the ill-fated Piper Alpha oil-rig 'just happened' to be owned by the U.S. Occidental company. The lack of concern of U.S. based multi-nationals for their foreign workforces is notorious. So such a tragedy was inevitable.

The terrible events of recent weeks show how American influence leads to death in everything it touches. The facts confirm what the NF has said for years:

The United States of America is an Empire of Death!

CREDIT CRASH ON THE CARDS?

THE RAPID RISE in interest rates seen over the last month is a desperate attempt by the government to stem the rising tide of credit spending and to put a brake on soaring property prices.

Department of Trade and Industry figures have repeatedly shown record rises in spending 'on the never never' this year. The increase is now approaching £4 billion per month. And much of it is spent on imported electrical and other luxury goods, fueling record trade deficits as well

DEBT

Bank credit cards amount to almost half the new credit, at £1.7 billion. Finance houses and building societies lend around £1.3 billion, retailers account for £450 million.

Little wonder that the Citizens Advice Bureau report a nine per cent increase last year in enquiries about dealing with personal debt. This means that such enquiries have doubled since 1980.

And many more families have been forced by rocketing property prices to take on far bigger mortgages than they can afford to repay.

All this makes the financial situation look more and more like the Stock Exchange before last October's crash. When the whole unstable structure topples to the ground it will be ordinary people, rather than the financiers, who lose their videos, cars and homes. Only too late will they discover why usury - the lending of money at interest - was regarded for centuries as immoral.

POLL-AXED TAX?

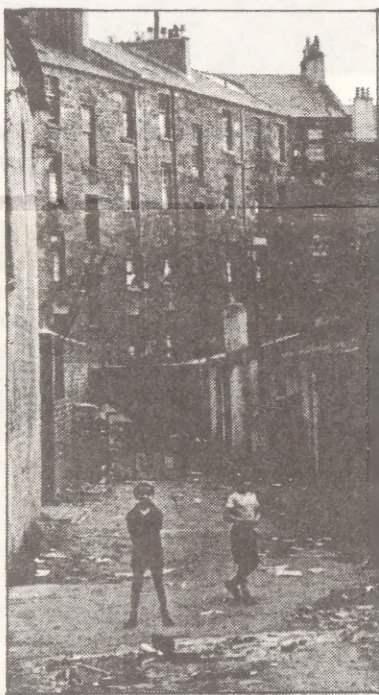

THE GOVERNMENTS POLL TAX plans are running into more and more trouble.

Independent auditors have now joined local government officials in pointing out that the cost of collecting the tax will be millions of pounds higher than the Tories will admit. Even without the widespread tax-dodging which will inevitably accompany the imposition of this tax on voting, it looks set to be a financial as well as social disaster.

The new tax will not be introduced until 1990, except in Scotland where it will be levied next year as a trial run. Scots are to be used as the State's 'guinea pigs' in the hope of identifying problems and finding solutions before the tax is applied elsewhere.

The mean spirit behind the tax is shown by the effect it will have on nurses in Scotland. Health Secretary John Moore made political capital out of pay increases for nurses of up to £405, and of the fact that they will be entitled to an 80% discount on the poll tax.

But he failed to point out that the discount would not start until 1990, so that Scottish nurses will have to pay the full rate for 18 months. In a city like Glasgow, this will amount to £630 - completely wiping out

SECRET DOCUMENT WARNS
OF WAVE OF RIOTS

THE GOVERNMENT has been warned to expect a wave of Broadwater Farm style riots in London, Birmingham and Bristol. A secret Cabinet minute from Home Secretary Douglas Hurd to the Prime Minister warns that the riots are likely to start in clashes between different immigrant groups.

Alarm bells started to ring after a meeting last month between chief constables from the metropolitan areas and Sir Clive Whitmore, Permanent Secretary at the Home Office. The top cops expressed their growing anxiety about the increase in violent clashes between Sikhs and Hindus and Asians and Blacks.

Flashpoint areas highlighted include Leeds, Moss Side in Manchester, North Kensington in London and Wolverhampton. But particular attention is paid to:

- * Birmingham, especially the Sparkbrook constituency of Labour deputy leader Roy Hattersley. Police fear that recent bloody clashes between Sikhs and Hindus over events in India could erupt into full-scale confrontation.

- * Bristol. Following two nights of hushed-up mob violence in St. Pauls last Autumn, there is mounting tension towards Asians from Blacks who see Asian businessmen as exploiting them.

- * Southall, where a series of disorders have occurred between Moslems and Sikhs, particularly when Moslem boys have tried to date Sikh girls.

Of all the main flashpoints, only one, North Peckham in South London, involves Whites. Clashes there are between White and Black youths over drugs.

This evidence of growing inter-immigrant violence is very inconvenient to the multi-racists and anti-White liberals who have been predicting race violence as a result of "widespread racial discrimination by Whites".

These people have either too much at stake or are too stupid to see the truth; that race violence is inevitable when different races are forced to live and mix together. Because it is human nature to prefer to be with your own kind and wish to preserve your own people. And this is something that they can never change, which leaves a clear cut choice: Repatriation or Race War!

PIPER ALPHA RIG TRAGEDY:
WHY?

WHY was the rig, owned by U.S. billionaire Armand Hammer (once a friend of Lenin, now a friend of Prince Charles) "old and obsolete"?

WHY was nothing done after the fire safety officer described it as "the most dangerous structure in the North Sea"?

WHY was the rig overlaid with marine growth and corrosion?

WHY was nothing done about the alarming vibrations from the production gear?

WHY were there no ladders, no free-fall lifeboats and no escape chutes, when these are always fitted on Norwegian oil-rigs?

WHY were the sealed living quarters right next to the oil and gas separation tank flashpoint, instead of as far away as possible, as on Norwegian rigs?

WHY was the report on the serious fire on Piper Alpha in 1984 never published and why was no action taken after, according to workers from the rig onshore at the time of the tragedy, three fires broke out on Piper Alpha in the few weeks preceding the tragedy?

WHY according to the same workers was the corrosion of pipes so bad that they often leaked and there was always an overpowering smell of gas on the rig?

WHY does the Department of Energy only employ 8 safety officers to inspect the 123 installations in the British sector of the North Sea?

WHY are foreign, and for that matter British, capitalists allowed to make fortunes from supposedly British national resources?

WHY did one hundred and sixty men die?

MONEY! THAT'S WHY!

their well-deserved and much publicized pay rise.

Such injustices help explain why the poll tax plan is so unpopular, especially in Scotland where it is only a few months away. Back in April, canvassers began to knock at doors in Scotland to collect the information needed to operate the tax. Since then the canvassers have been systematically attacked in some areas in an attempt which could make the information uncollectable. The canvassers will be out and about in England and Wales from April next year.

And this explains why the Tories are prepared to go to absurd lengths to ensure that the tax is paid.

The latest mad-cap scheme to be bulldozed through parliament will empower local councils to give people free entry to council run lotteries in exchange for prompt payment of the unjust tax. It is hoped that this bribe will help with the collection.

The fact that such a measure is thought necessary shows how nervous the Tories are of their new tax. They are well aware that it would take only a reasonable minority of people to refuse to pay the tax to make the whole thing impossible to implement.

POLICE
IGNORED?

Home Secretary Douglas Hurd is considering a Police Complaints Authority plea that it should be allowed to ignore complaints that it considers to be "vexatious, oppressive or an abuse of the system". The PCA obviously haven't thought it through properly unless they're after the redundancy pay!

WHERE

NATIONAL FREEDOM

Britain is a family of Nations - England, Wales, Scotland, Kernow, Mannin, Eire and Ulster - linked by blood and history. The peoples of all nations have an inalienable right to self-determination and to preserve their native cultures and traditions. We look forward to the day when Eire voluntarily rejoins the future federated British family of nations.

RACIAL SEPARATION

Race is the main determining factor in nationality. Racially mixed societies cannot form one nation and are therefore unstable.

No one race is 'superior' to others, but they are all different. Racial integration threatens all races. Humane repatriation is better for us all than endless repression and racial violence.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

The nation is a great family. Every member of our national family has the absolute right to care at the nation's expense when young, sick or old. There must be equal opportunity for all, but unearned privilege for none.

WELL DISTRIBUTED
PROPERTY

The realistic opportunity to own one's own home and place of work is the right of all our people. Direct ownership of the means of production and distribution is essential for individual freedom, for family stability and for the best use of our national resources.

SANITY IN FINANCE

The right to create the credit needed by the economy must belong to the people's government. The banks, which have usurped this right, must be stripped of their unjust gains and power. The National Debt is based on usury and must be repudiated.

RESPECT FOR NATURE

We hold the environment in trust for future generations. Pollution of the land, sea and air, and of the gene pool through radiation, is a betrayal of that trust.

DIRECT DEMOCRACY

Parliamentary representation is a fraud. Party rule is a cloak for the dictatorship of vested interests and media bosses. Government must be in the hands of the people themselves, through new information technology, and the election of delegates to carry out their wishes. Power must be devolved to the lowest possible level.

THE ARMED PEOPLE

The freedoms given by these principles must be defended through armed neutrality, with well-equipped national defence forces involving the entire adult population. Power, wealth and arms in the hands of the people!

REVOLUTION NOT REFORM

These changes cannot be brought about by tinkering within the System, or by relying on the System's own institutions, such as parliament, schools or the courts. They can only spring from a National Revolution. This revolution must begin in the hearts of individuals, then spread by their example to involve whole communities in revolutionary structures such as alternative councils and schools, neighbourhood patrols and self-help groups. Once we cease to depend on the institutions of the old State, it will be swept aside.

THE THIRD WAY

The growth of these ideas in nation after nation shows that a new force is rising in the world for the 21st century. Leaving behind the sterile hatreds of Capitalism and Communism, this Third Way offers a real future for all our peoples. We urge all those who agree with these principles to join with us in the struggle to build the National Front - the Movement of the Future.

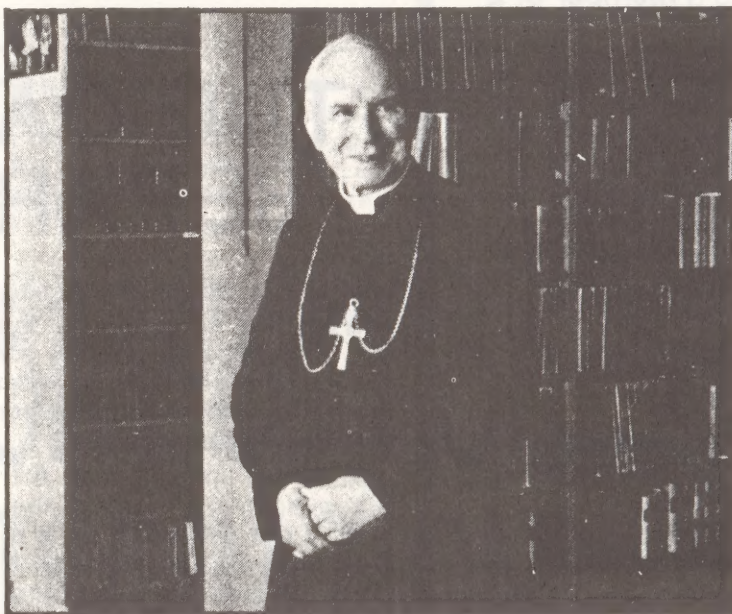

WORLD AFFAIRS, ANALYSIS & COMMENT

LEFEBVRE PREPARES FOR WAR

AT THE end of June the world's media indulged in an orgy of hatred when Archbishop Lefebvre consecrated four bishops to his traditionalist Catholic fraternity, the Society of St. Pius X, at his mountain headquarters of Ecône in Switzerland.

Why was the secular press so concerned with the purported 'defiance' of a prelate who had said that the Vatican had been occupied by anti-Christians?

Why was this Archbishop likened to Ayatollah Khomeini and his priestly fraternity to Hizbollah? The reason is simple: the Archbishop, the Society and their beliefs are a living and final condemnation of the direction, values and powers of the modern world. And it was for this reason that the media sought to obscure the true reasons for the events being played out in this beautiful region of Switzerland.

VENOM

William Rees-Mogg, the doyen of disgusting Fleet Street liberals who crave respectability above all else, epitomized the venom expended on the Archbishop in an article that sought to portray Lefebvre as an ignorant, but proud old man, but which only demonstrated with total clarity the utter intellectual vacuity of Rees-Mogg and his ilk.

Unable to bring forth even the semblance of an argument, they resorted to half-truth, calculated abuse and outright lies; and they have got the gall to say that such weapons are confined to Murdoch's gutter press!

NO COMPROMISE

The fact is that the Powers that Be in the media world don't like Lefebvre because he is not their kind of liberal cleric who can be counted on to endorse every kind of perversion, of every kind of national treason.

Archbishop Lefebvre is a rare species in the world of the Christian clergy. He condemns unreservedly both homosexuality and abortion; he condemns the evils of usury and the baneful influence of a prostitute world media. He names names and points out what powers must be identified and destroyed: Marxism, Freemasonry, Capitalism and Zionism.

He says that these are forces dragging the world to its ruins. He says that there can be no compromise between Truth and Error, and that war between these world forces and the forces of Truth and Order is inevitable.

MILITANT ORDER

The media have sought to portray Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre as an isolated reactionary in the hope of stemming the growth of his militant Order. In spite of this he has assembled a priestly body many hundreds strong, youthful and intelligent, and a laity that is numbered by the millions and organized in 28 countries.

His unrepentant French nationalism, his espousal of Traditional Social Teaching, his willingness to combat the powers of Evil stands in marked contrast to the usual 'Christian' cleric. Lefebvre's courageous action is a world historic phenomenon for the Christian Faith - it is the emergence of a Third Way on a religious front.

It is all the more commendable given the appalling liberalism of the Runcie/Hume coterie. For that reason this phenomenon must be welcomed as an important element in the struggle to overthrow the powers of World Arrogance.

U.S. AIR CREWS FLY DRUGS RUN IN EUROPE

MUCH has been heard of the effect of the U.S. occupation of most of Europe, whether it be the threat of being dragged into a conflict with another nation which would normally have no quarrel with us, or the effect of the soul destroying 'coca cola culture' and its various symptoms on our young.

However there is another aspect to their presence which is adding to an already existing problem in many European countries, including the British Isles, and which poses a direct physical threat to all our people, this being the growing menace of the drugs trade.

NF News has recently had confirmed something that we have suspected for a long time: Some U.S. air crews flying in and out of Europe are being paid vast sums of money to move

U.S.A. PAY FOR NEW ISRAELI MISSILE SYSTEM

THE UNITED STATES has once again publicly declared its subservience to Israel by agreeing to pay for 80% of a new $400 million (£220m) missile system for the State Terrorist of the Middle East.

The Arrow missile is a spin-off from Reagan's Star Wars programme and is expected to be deployed within the next three years.

SOVIET TROOPS MOVE IN

SOVIET STORMTROOPS have again been sent into Yerevan, capital of Armenia, to suppress massive demonstrations calling for the mainly Armenian region of Nagorno Karabakh, in the neighbouring Republic of Azerbaijan, to be put under Armenian rule.

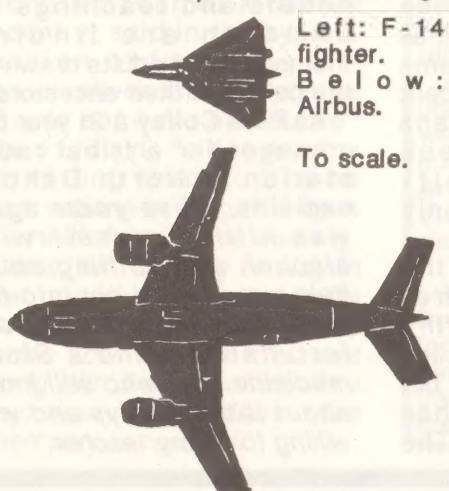

This follows a demonstration at the start of the month involving 800,000 people and a general strike. A youth was shot dead and 35 people injured in clashes between occupying soldiers and demonstrators at the airport.

drugs from places like Turkey which they can then safely get through almost non-existent customs checks. This is not scare mongering, but comes from the lips of unhappy U.S. personnel based in western Germany.

But although this information is now becoming public we don't expect the various European countries to do anything about it as it would upset their masters in Washington too much. After all, the U.S.A. has a chronic drug problem, so why shouldn't we?

THE LIES OF THE GREAT SATAN

Sunday July 10th. At first the Yanks deny everything and then later admit to shooting down the Iranian airbus carrying 290 civilians.
Monday July 11th. They claim the airliner was four miles outside the commercial air corridor and was descending as it approached.
Tuesday July 12th. The American Defence Department admit that the plane was ascending not descending.
Wednesday July 13th. The Yanks claim that the airbus was sending both military and commercial signals. Another U.S. warship in the area reports that it only received commercial signals from the airliner.
Thursday July 14th. The U.S. concede that the civilian plane was well inside the 11 mile wide air corridor but four miles from its central line. Independent sources reveal that a P3 Orion reconnaissance plane was occupying what should have been the airliners airspace.

THE ECONOMIC LEAGUE

In short, the Economic League is nothing more than a Capitalist front organization charged with waging a campaign of harassment against opponents of the System. As a result the League received almost a million pounds in 1985 from some 2000 subscribers. Similar amounts of money received year in and year out allow it to employ a staff of 62 spread amongst five regional offices.

BLACKLIST

In return for a subscription, the customer receives regular bulletins on nationalist and Socialist organizations, news on forthcoming League campaigns and access to the self-styled vetting service described earlier. A glimpse of how the League gathers its information was provided by Granada's World in Action series, in a documentary called "Boys on the Blacklist." Alan Harvey, a League official based in the North East of England, foolishly boasted on film of how the League co-operates closely with the police, and in return receives information such as who owns a particular car.

Former police officers are used to gain access to private information such as criminal records and credit files on people whose only crime is anti-Capitalism.

The League has advised its supporters to remain anonymous, but some of the companies involved can't resist declaring their payments as "political contributions". Barclays bank gave £6,900; Coutts and Co. £300; Royal Bank of Scotland, £3,200; Lloyds, £5,600; Nat West, £8,900; Haweer Siddely and GKN gave £6,200 and £3,675 respectively.

It must be clearly known that the Economic League is as actively hostile to nationalism as it is to the left. Its most recent attack was in the form of a pamphlet entitled "Revolutionaries Today", devoted to the NF. This supposed report was distributed to the media and "SUPPLYING information on political subversives" is how Michael Noar describes the activities of his employer, the so-called Economic League. "A company will get in touch with us and say have you heard of X? We can sometimes say he writes for a certain publication or has made a speech saying so and so, and is a member of a certain organization."

contained such lies as that the NF has rejected elections and the peaceful road to power (even though a Home Office report has stated that this is not so), and that the NF caused the football riot at Heysel Stadium (even though the Liverpool police investigation stated there was no NF involvement). In all its charges of alleged criminal activities by the NF, these supposed intelligence gatherers could not provide one specific date, one specific time or place, and most importantly, the name of any NF member involved. Ironically, one inspiration for their lies was Searchlight, the declining rag run by arch-Zionists and Communist sympathizers. Perhaps the League's fat-cat Capitalist backers should worry as to whether they are getting value for money.

DISGUSTED

Nationalists should be disgusted at any attempt to attack the right of militants to oppose the system legally. No one has the rights to force nationalists out of their jobs because of their political opinions. It is time that this sick little organization was put into its place. The NF replied to the League's smear attempt with its own reply to the lies.

Every reader can help by withdrawing their support for any of the companies, for instance by closing an account with any of the listed banks. We are already ensuring that our units do this. As consumers, we have the power to effect change.

The NF can also act as a conduit for information on individuals and organizations which support the disreputable activities of the Economic League.

The National Front's Monitoring Unit has also written to members of the League's Central Council asking for a meeting to express our movements anger at this organizations unwarranted interference in our affairs. It is quite amazing that the left groups harassed in a similar way by the League, have failed dismally to counteract the damage it has done.

The NF is quite prepared for a struggle with the Economic League since the League seems determined to bother the NF.

Time will tell which is the more popular, legitimate and long-term organization.

FOOTNOTE :

In February, in a magazine called "PC BUSINESS WORLD", Mr. Noar was quoted as saying that anyone fearing their name may be held by the Economic League, can contact them and will be told.

THE OTHER FACE OF SEARCHLIGHT

WE have taken the unusual step of reprinting a book review from another publication because it confirms again what the National Front has said for years about the people behind Searchlight, the anti-NF hate magazine.

Blag Flag is an anarchist paper. It is certainly no friend of ours, so it is good to see it reaching the same conclusions as us about low-lives like Gerry Gable. The man is a Special Branch fink!

But we would like to point out to Black Flag that the NF in Britain has nothing to do with the organization of the same name in South Africa. We condemn the petty apartheid of the Botha regime without reservation. We believe in complete racial separation. This means that Whites must do their own menial and dirty jobs, not keep other races as second class citizens to do them for us.

Right: The book review from Black Flag Number 181 - 25/4/88.

Ray Hill with Andrew Bell: The Other Face of Terror (Grafton £3.50)

Ray Hill was a convinced nazi leader and a capable organiser, whose one talent corrupted lots of young impressionable punters seeking an easy solution to their problems—consoling themselves that a white skin meant superiority denied by injustice. He went to South Africa to find such an 'ideal society' only to find that the reservation of top places to white skins did not mean people with white skins could necessarily get them—one stroke of bad luck, a road accident, meant that his family were on the skids and could be only saved by the usual propaganda job, and finally by returning to a society which tolerated whites being poor. Whether because of disillusionment, or because of seeing the effects his own personal influence had upon an Indian family—squatting on a tent outside the house from which they were evicted because of the National Front's insistence the police enforce the apartheid laws in a run-down area unwanted by whites (his version), or whether because, as his fellow fascists allege, he was hard up and money changed hands, he switched from being an ardent supporter of fascism and organiser of the English-speaking fascists in SA, to being a mole for Searchlight, a paper which campaigns for fascism to be made illegal.

Was it such a great difference? He claims so, pointing proudly to his record of subsequently disorientating the minor fascist groupings, by espionage, exposure and agent-provocatourism. These methods are pretty disgusting by any standards, and reminiscent of classical nazi tactics. He consoles himself frequently that they were disruptive of the nazi parties for the demise of which he takes credit. He was supported by the notoriously Stalinist Gerry Gable and his apparently limitless funds.

Naturally, they did not hesitate to co-operate with Special Branch, though it is noticeable that SB seldom acted (as it would have against revolutionaries); it has often been alleged that the whole Searchlight set up is utilised by SB for an exchange of information, getting an entry into left wing organisations by dropping information about the minor, discredited and discreditable fascist parties. Significant ones such as the Economic League, or the 'individualists' in the Conservative party, are ignored.

Hill, like Searchlight, is an amusing sideshow with the nuttier nationalists' dirty linen on display, but can one afford the admission price—a tradeoff with SB?

SPIRIT

THE CALL FOR SEPARATISM

WHEN Col. Muammer Qathafi announced in a recent radio address that he supported the idea of dividing North America into three separate nations - one for Blacks, one for Whites and one for American Indians - it sparked mixed reactions throughout the United States. But nowhere did it draw stronger response than from Indian separatists.

American Indian leader, Art Hill, executive director of the Native American Community Development Corp, in Nebraska, said he was "all for" Qathafi's suggestion. He explained that high unemployment, social problems, and unfulfilled promises for Indians make the idea worth exploring.

One group that has fought for the cause of Indian separatism for many years now is the well known and controversial American Indian Movement. AIM came to public attention on February 27th 1973 when a group of over 200 armed supporters siezed control of the small town of Wounded Knee. This reservation settlement marks the spot where, in 1890, US troops massacred 200 Dakota Sioux, mostly women, children and elderly.

For nearly three months the Indian separatists held onto the area in the face of police and government agents who were superior in both numbers and equipment. Led by AIM member Russell Means, the militant protestors demanded Senate investigations of past injustices. Further, they made clear their intention of forming a self-governing, independent territory in the region, denouncing control by Bureau of Indian Affairs puppets.

While the Indian separatists were unable to gain an independent homeland, their defiant action, at the cost of 2 dead, was a profound statement of physical and moral courage. Over 300 outside followers and supporters risked arrest in order to aid the besieged Indian rebels until their eventual surrender in May. The whole episode only helped arouse sympathy for native Americans in the public eye.

TRAGIC LEGACY

Today, the siege of Wounded Knee may be forgotten by most of the public, but the underlying problem it represents remains. Continued racial tensions on reservation lands between Whites and Indians, as well as aggravated social problems for Native Americans in recent years, has forced Indians more than ever to seek separatism and self-determination as the only viable alternative.

Indians face many of the problems which other Americans are struggling with, in terms of social decline and poor living conditions, but at a much higher rate than either Whites or Blacks. The dilemma of modern reservation life is a well known fact, but one which neither liberals nor conservatives seem able to remedy.

Recent news reports cite drug abuse, alcoholism, and teenage suicide as becoming epidemic on Indian lands. Another threat to the native culture, surprisingly enough, comes from the ever increasing flood of legal and illegal immigrants from Mexico and Latin America. Indian tribes along the US-Mexican border fear that their lands will be overrun by the thousands of Hispanics who arrive every month. The Indians must also contend with an upsurge in violence due to drug trafficking across their reservations by Hispanic dealers trying to avoid US customs patrols. A number of Indians have been killed recently in confrontations with illegals who are invading their territory.

TRADITION VERSUS MODERNISM

But even with the often miserable and degrading conditions inherent in Federal reservations, the sense of cultural nationalism amongst Indians has actually increased in the past decade. A report in Newsweek magazine cites "a growing number of American Indians are returning to their ancestral lands after living for years in large cities." Despite the apparent drawbacks of reservation life, which drove many Indians to seek a livelihood in the cities, it is estimated that over half will eventually return. "For many" say Newsweek reporters, "family ties and ethnic pride are stronger lures than the financial incentives."

The most encouraging thing is that many Indians in their 20's and 30's, and even those brought up outside their native culture, are rediscovering their roots. Part of this, of course, is due to the unrelenting efforts by groups like AIM, but an equally important part is the spiritual aspect. Some who were never exposed to Indian beliefs and teachings as children are finding themselves as adults drawn to the beliefs of their ancestors.

As Pete Coffey a 31 year old manager for a tribal radio station in North Dakota explains, "Five years ago I was killing myself with alcohol, and nothing could help me.... until I got into the old Indian ways. I was very fortunate to find a Sioux medicine man who still knew about the old ways and was willing to be my teacher."

OF COCHISE

"We do not say that we are superior or inferior to the White man and we do not say that the White man is superior or inferior to us. We do say that we are not White men but Indians; do not wish to become White men, but wish to remain Indians; and have an outlook on all things different from the outlook of the White man."

- Seminole Petition to the President, 1957.

A HISTORY OF FORCED INTEGRATION

ATTEMPTS AT INTEGRATION of the American Indian go back further than that of White-Black integration. As early as 1887, with the signing of the General Allotment Act, the US government decreed that all Indians were to be assimilated into the 'mainstream' by becoming individual landowners.

The so-called reformists of the period believed that the 'Indian problem' could be solved once and for all by breaking up reservation lands and turning Indians into farmers - in other words into White men. In fact, the Allotment Act was an unmitigated disaster for Indians and a boon for Whites who coveted their lands.

OBVIOUS HARM

Yet, despite the obvious harm that integration had done for the Indians, reducing their standard of living to one of the lowest in America, pressure groups still maintain that assimilation has not gone far enough. A hodge-podge of organizations with names like 'Congress for Equal Rights and Responsibilities', 'Equal Rights for Everyone Inc', and 'Totally Equal Americans' have favoured abrogation of existing treaties with Indian tribes, thereby forcing them further into the rest of non-Indian society, or else letting the reservations slowly die off.

Indians face further cuts by the Reagan Administration in their already inadequate health care. They are also the only minority group in America required to prove their pedigree. Native Americans cannot receive government assistance unless they are enrolled members of a federally recognized tribe.

GENOCIDE

'Genocide' is a term frequently heard nowadays on the reservations referring to the ongoing campaign to remove what is left of the Indian identity. President Ronald Reagan, during his glorified tour of Moscow recently, said in the typical fashion of 'melting-pot' conservatives that "Maybe we should not have humoured" American Indians by permitting them to live on reservations segregated from the rest of American society. Instead of "wanting to stay in that primitive lifestyle. Maybe we should have said: 'No, come join us. Be citizens along with the rest of us.' As I say, many have. Many have been very successful."

The American President was referring here to recent exploitation by corporate developers in petroleum and mineral finds, stating, "Some of them became very rich" by pumping oil.

COMPLETELY FALSE

There was a quick response by American Indian Movement officials proclaiming Reagan's remarks as "completely false". They added that they were pleading with the Federal government "to stop the destruction of sacred land areas in northern California".

This blatantly naive and racist statement on Reagan's part was in response to questions by Soviet officials about Indians, and what they regard as an example of human rights abuses in the United States. US officials naturally dismissed the charges as "Soviet propaganda". As a result, the two Superpowers can go on pointing the accusing fingers at one another while millions are oppressed and dehumanized under their respective systems.

NEW INCENTIVES

IT is important not to get the impression that all, or even most, Indians are unable to cope with their plight, however terrible it has been. The fact that native Americans can succeed and stake out independent lives on their own is revealed by a number of independent enterprises which have cropped up throughout the country. One example is that of the Sac and Fox tribe located in central Oklahoma.

Although the original reservation has been greatly reduced since the time of the original treaty in the mid-1800's and eventual non-Indian control, the tribe has managed to pool together its resources through manufacturing and industry, generating a $3.2 million annual budget, paying off its debts with a modest surplus left over. In the past, economic development and progress have usually exacted a high price in terms of culture and tradition. However, due to the recent trend in cultural revival, many young Indians are taking their education and expertise and applying them to their own peoples. "Our identity has been diluted since the 1950's because of assimilation", says Chief Gaylon R. Franklin of the Sac and Fox reservation. "But we're discovering we can be Indians and still be a part of society. We're becoming more Indianized again, instead of trying to assimilate ourselves to White America...." His people, Franklin believes, are developing a "new Indian frontier".

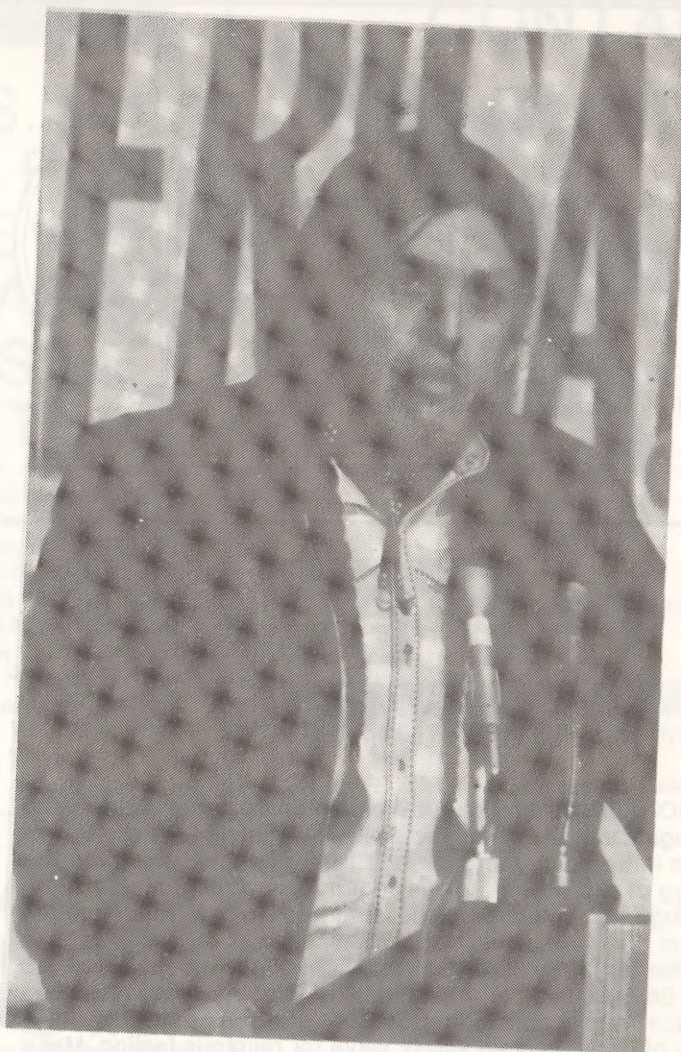

NATURAL HARMONY

Another example of the positive results of Indian nationalism can be found in the Yakima nation, located in the Rocky Mountains in the State of Washington. Here native Americans have made a conscious effort to preserve their values and at the same time establish an independent community in harmony with nature.

The Yakima is a relatively wealthy tribe when compared to other Indians. In past decades they managed to build a prosperous community run timber industry, which became their main source of livelihood. Nevertheless they are having to face encroachment by major lumber businesses from the outside which could devastate the lush forest region. Fortunately, the Yakima have managed to maintain control over their timber, which is so vulnerable to fire and greed, by closing a major portion of the reservation to non-Indians. The Closed Area within the nation's reservation area is strictly off limits to all but tribal members.

Although the restricted area has existed for many years, it wasn't until 1976 that the tribe began to assert its sovereignty. Guardhouses were set up along the main roads to screen everyone entering. Some non-Indians who had once trespassed to hunt and fish in the Closed Area with impunity ignored the new policy. However, confronted by tribal police and tribal courts and jails, many non-Indians in the area suddenly developed a deeper appreciation for Indian sovereignty.

The result of the Yakima nation's unrelenting stance for self-determination has produced a perfect example of the Unity in Diversity preached by Third Position nationalists. We see how the Indians are able to protect and maintain their culture and at the same time live in harmony with nature and protect many valuable forest tracts in the United States, which, if ruthlessly cut down, could result in irreparable environmental damage.

THE FIGHT FOR SURVIVAL

AS OUR readers can see, the struggle by American Indians is not unlike our own. Like us, they must face social, political, economic and environmental threats to their very survival as a people. Exploitation, whether at the hands of governmental authorities or corporate giants is ever present.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs, for instance, which is charged with safeguarding Indian property and rights from unwarranted intrusion by non-Indians, is seen by most native Americans as a Federal puppet. A well known Yakima activist, Russell Jim, from the nearby Hanford Reservation, believes that while the vast majority of Bureau employees are Indians, "99 per cent are bureaucrats who have lost all cultural ties".

There is a continued tension between those Indians who want to preserve their identity and those who are motivated primarily by economics. The bureaucrats, says Jim, "because they are not culturally orientated", tend to side with outsiders who want resource development on Indian lands.

Russell Jim, and many others, feel that the Bureau's policies towards the reservations are economically short-sighted. He also emphasizes the fact that by living according to native traditions Indians will actually be more prosperous. "Everyone thinks that this [the Hanford reservation] was a useless desert before irrigation, but it wasn't. This land supported our people for thousands of years with 70 different types of food and medicine. This so-called 'desert' yielded more food per acre than it does now with irrigation".

Now the Yakima are worried about another threatening use of their land. They face the prospect of having a nuclear waste dump at the Hanford Nuclear site. It is at this defence installation that the US government operates a plutonium production reactor with a core similar to that of the Soviet reactor at Chernobyl.

Since 1978 the Yakima have taken an aggressive stand against the dump. Among the numerous resolutions passed by the tribal council are a ban on the transportation of nuclear material across the reservation and a formal refusal to evacuate the reservation in the event of an accident at Hanford.

Russell Jim indicates that if nuclear waste were to leak into the confluence of the Columbia, Yakima and Snake rivers, the water could "carry that contamination a long way - Alaska, Japan, Russia. Our concern is not just for ourselves; this is a global concern".

SPIRITUAL FACTORS

But the concern goes beyond environmental factors. To the Yakima nation the Hanford area is sacred. According to their folklore the Creator made the first Yakima from the soil there, and generations of young Indians have been sent by their elders to mountains on 'vision quests' which consist of a period of fasting and prayer in which the young Indian seeks a message from the Great Spirit.

Leaders like Russell Jim are right to fear both ecological and political threats to their existence. But even more important is the lack of a spiritual understanding in our modern age of mass-production and consumption. "Today the 5 billionth human was born", Jim says, "by the time the 6 billionth is born.... only condominiums will exist". The Indians are trying to make themselves heard, and to stake out independent nations in this hour of crisis. Like us they want to survive the materialistic blight which is plaguing the world under the guise of Capitalist and Communist dictatorship.

THE BEAR TRUTH

NATIONALISTS throughout Western Europe must have mixed feelings about the remarkable series of changes in the Soviet Union initiated by Gorbachev. Clearly we must welcome the easing of repression against political and religious activists although we should remember that it is shallow front aimed to take in the more naive. Nationalists, such as those in Armenia and the Nagorno-Karabakh region, still face harsh repression from Soviet troops at the bequest of Gorbachev and religious freedom is only granted to the Russian church, seen by many as an officially backed safety valve for religious feeling. Many Christians still face persecution and their public worship is banned.

We can take hope from the small reduction in nuclear weapons based on and aimed at our Continent. And we can see a pin-point of light at the end of the tunnel of the military occupation of Europe by Soviet and U.S. tanks. For Gorbachev's first tentative offer to dismantle the Warsaw Pact in return for the breakup of NATO will inevitably become increasingly attractive to an American Empire burdened by mounting debt.

SHREWD

But we mustn't get too enthusiastic or be too naive about the offers and image of the most talented and shrewd propagandist seen on the world stage for a generation. Gorbachev's 'reforms' would still leave a repressive system based on a One Party State, merely softening the image with a cloak of 'representative democracy' - the same parliamentary fraud under which the British peoples have had their wishes and interests ignored for centuries. No real step forward for our long suffering brothers and sisters in Eastern Europe.

The hopeless inefficiency of State Capitalism, with its rationing by shortage, will be steadily replaced by private, corporate Capitalism, with its rationing by poverty. If the System there becomes less incompetent, radiation from Chernobyl style explosions will be replaced by Sellafield style leaks. The Systems, East and West, will become ever more similar, and will remain as dangerous to ordinary people and our environment.

NO TO NATIONALISM

And finally, Gorbachev has warned that "Nationalism will not be tolerated" and that national boundaries within the Soviet Union will not be redrawn to take into account the wishes of ethnic, religious or national minorities to be ruled by their own people and to have their children taught their own cultures.

Here, more clearly than anywhere else, we see the way in which the logical end of the Gorbachev road is another U.S.A., another multi-racial Capitalist 'representative' tyranny. If the peoples of Eastern Europe want a true alternative to Stalin's Communist barbarism they will have to struggle for it, not expect to be handed it on a plate.

And meanwhile in the West we can only watch developments in the Soviet Union with interest. Our own immediate struggle is not with the Soviet System. The foreign war-machine that occupies our own lands is not Russian. The pressures to destroy our European identity do not come from Moscow. The alien 'culture' which is destroying our own traditions and values is not symbolized by bottles of Vodka, but by cans of Coca Cola.

GREATEST THREAT

Our great enemy is the United States of America. Even without the enormous and evil influence of the Zionist lobby in Washington D.C., 'Uncle Sam' would still be the greatest threat to our political, military, economic and cultural freedom and survival.

The most significant result of Gorbachev's perestroika for us is that by reducing public fear and loathing of the Russian Bear, it will make it ever more obvious to more and more people that the U.S. bases in Britain and Europe are not here to 'protect' us, but to house forces of occupation whose sole role is to serve other interests at our expense.

The Yanks are not welcome here. But they won't go unless growing numbers of people push them.

DEAR EDITOR

NO EVIDENCE

Dear NFN,

The front page story in Issue 106 was correct to call our present system of parliamentary misrepresentation a con-trick but wrong, I believe, to advocate the return of capital punishment.

There is no statistical evidence whatsoever that hanging is a deterrent; if one compares abolitionist and retentionist countries - and nations before and after abolition - there is nothing to suggest that judicial execution reduces crimes of murder or violence. Whatever the gutter press says, the total number of murders committed has not increased significantly since abolition of the death penalty in the U.K. nations.

The risk of hanging an innocent person is too great; recent years have seen a sequence of convictions against the innocent; if capital punishment had not been abolished in 1964 at least five people would have been wrongly executed. For example, one Keith Fellowes supposedly killed an elderly man and was sentenced to seven years; later new evidence emerged and he was declared innocent in 1985. If the death penalty was in use he would be both innocent and dead. Indeed, this happened to Edward E. Johnson in the U.S.A. A week after he was killed his lawyer discovered a woman who could have given him an alibi; the police had previously told her to go home and mind her own business.

I hate the scum who kill the innocent; yet, I would not support the return of the rope. Instead, those who kill should be given life sentences that really do mean life.

Yours for Wessex,
G.R. Gosport.

SECTARIAN INTERESTS

Dear NFN,

Whilst I found the general content of the Ulster leader article headlined "Anti-Protestant Laws" in issue 105 essentially informative, I have to say that I was unhappy to see that sensationalist headline, focusing on sectarian interests. In view of the fact that our policy of Independence for Ulster has such potential as regards making overtures to Ulster Catholics and Eire patriots, surely this is a retrograde step.

Also I cannot see any justification for mistrusting ordinary Catholics to be IRA agents, rather that this is precisely the type of tactless hysteria which in the past forced that group into the arms of the Provisionals. I can imagine the football thugs and nihilists reading that headline and conceding that we weren't so bad after all.

Surely this flies in the face of

HISTORIC COUNTIES

Dear Sir,

The National Front is rightly committed to a return to the historical counties of England and Scotland as they existed before Heath's 1972 Local Government Act. What many readers may not be aware of is that the Act itself should have made no difference except for the purposes of local government.

There are two types of counties: administrative, which are used for local government, and historical, largely unchanged over 1,000 years, which were, until 1974 when the act came into effect, the counties to which you owed your loyalty and which were given in your address and shown on maps. The two types have been separate since 1888. There have been changes in local government since then but never before did they effect the historical counties. The government stated at the time that the 1972 Act would be no different. What was different about the 1974 changes was that the Post Office and the Ordnance Survey decided, without justification, that the administrative counties were the ones they were going to use in postal addresses and show on maps. This has conned most people into believing that the old counties no longer exist. This is not true; except for administrative purposes, the historic counties are the correct ones. So Birmingham is still in Warwickshire, Rutland is still a county and Yorkshire is still divided into three ridings.

When pushed, the Department of the Environment will admit the truth of these facts but, as it makes no attempt to publicize them, it is up to us to spread the word. All over the country there are groups loyal to their traditional county with a large amount of popular support; we, as nationalists aware of the importance of roots and tradition, should be supporting them.

Yours Faithfully,
G.W. Jersey.

RIGHT TO LIFE

Dear Sir,

Having had discussions with comrades throughout the North West, many including myself find policy rather inconsistent on the issue of the right to life.

On the one hand, the movement is against the abortion of pregnancies. I agree with this policy. On the other hand, the movements ideology stands rigidly in favour of the reinstatement of the death penalty for many crimes. It would appear that we are advocating that the State should decide whether a person is guilty or innocent and then have the right to take that persons right to life away pending on the outcome of their decision or that of some sort of court merely representing the supposed views of the general public. Is this not a case of double standards when we are arguing against the taking of the unborn child even when the mother wishes it, on the grounds that it is murder.

Let us not cloud the issue on the pretext of the child's innocence and the supposed guilt of the convicted. As far as I'm concerned, we wish to create a society which would take life or we do not. Whether the life we take is guilty or not is irrelevant, for murder is still murder and anybody will agree that the crime is far worse when committed in cold blood. For a body to be placed in such a position of respect and trust as the National Front one day will, to advocate this regular killing off of court convicted criminals is nothing short of mass murder, and cannot be allowed to happen.

The final statement that I would like to make is that the execution of even the most revolting of criminals who is so guilty that it's untrue, is at most a form of revenge which will reduce the system we create to the level of the murderer - two wrongs don't ever make a right.

Yours in comradeship,
J.O. Blackpool.

WORKING ANIMALS

Dear NFN,

I wonder if your readers are aware of the fact that Michael Jackson's chimp is to be allowed to evade Britain's 6 month quarantine regulations on the grounds that it is a 'working animal'.

This is an appalling insult to the many blind people who are unable to go abroad for their holidays because of the same 6 month rule on animals entering or leaving Britain.

Surely if any animal is a working animal then it is the guide dog which helps its master with his or her everyday tasks, and not the play thing of a multi-racist, American junk culture promoter!

Yours,
A.B. Liverpool.

Editorial Comment

As it eventually turned out, the authorities, under enormous public pressure, changed their minds and the chimp stayed at home.

Yours for Nationalism,

RED CHOIR HELPS NF PAPERSALE

TOWARDS the end of June NF activists set up their normal paper sale in a shopping precinct in Merthyr Tydfil, only to find about 30 Reds, including a number of English imports, leafleting the area.

After being handed an anti-poll tax leaflet, one activist asked who was behind it. He was told "various left-wing groups". The NF News seller then asked if any revolutionary group could get involved in the campaign and was told yes. He then revealed that he was from FfC Cymru and he was told no which proves that the Reds don't really care about scuppering Thatcher's Bill.

A Red choir then started singing various 'Free Mandela' songs and began to hand out pathetic handwritten anti-NF leaflets which actually encouraged quite a few people to buy NF News for the first time and see what we stood for themselves.

Despite being provoked by shouts of "Nazi scum" the NF papersellers held their ground and after being joined by more comrades the Reds became quite dismayed. In order to cheer themselves up a bit they then burst into sporadic chorus's of The Internationale and The Red Flag along with the Welsh National Anthem(?) And they wondered why they didn't sell any papers!

The Reds had also informed two local radio stations of their activities in order to gain publicity, and became even more disheartened when reporters actually turned up, virtually ignored them, and interviewed an NF News seller about a wide range of issues.

The radio stations concerned are now organizing a discussion between an NF official and a Red.

AN NFN sales team has now begun regular activities in Pontypridd with some success. They are already selling roughly £15 worth of NF News on the streets of 'Ponty' as the NF message spreads far and wide throughout Cymru.

POPULAR RULE MAKES POPULAR READING

CAERDYDD NF have received an encouraging response to a leaflet discussing the parliamentary hoax from a local viewpoint.

The NF's alternative system of popular government through street and area committees in which everybody would have the chance to participate is also put over in the leaflet, which even political opponents have described as "intelligent and thought provoking".

B.U.A.V. LABOUR BIGOTS LEFT IN THE DOG HOUSE

HAVERING NF have twice supported an independent Animal Rights candidate in local elections recently. The candidate, a personal friend of an NF official, his election agent, included in his election address an acknowledgement of the local units financial help towards his campaign.

The Labour bigots of the B.U.A.V., who are supposedly fighting for animal welfare, obtained an injunction against the candidates election address because they claimed it used their logo, although their real objection was to the candidates attack on ritual slaughter and awareness of the National Front's stand against all forms of animal cruelty.

Havering Animal Welfare were not intimidated by such antics and besides contesting a further election have continued to organize street demo's to highlight the campaign for an animal warden in the borough, much to the chagrin of the local Labour Party.

The group also joined in a recent march protesting against the neglect of horses left abandoned on local marshland and calling for an appropriate change in the law. H.A.W. featured prominently in the press and T.V. coverage.

The Left believe that the NF should not be 'allowed' to support campaigns on animal rights, nor for that matter workers co-ops, or to oppose capitalism, the E.E.C. and the financial system etc. They have worked hard for years in infiltrating and ultimately taking over radical pressure groups. Non-Marxists have effectively been squeezed out and have left the field. And we have been tipped off that the Left are pushing for another purge amongst existing Animal Welfare groups.

However as we gain strength and the Left continue to decline, it's inevitable that we step into that vacuum where those issues reflect our ideology. Unlike the Left though we are not forced to infiltrate but can organize and promote our views via either the organization or in kindred pressure groups.

We should therefore make it a priority to involve ourselves in existing pressure groups or form our own.

BARKING CAMPAIGN FOR PALESTINIAN RIGHTS

Campaign for Palestinian Rights and NF members and supporters have been mounting a series of pickets in Barking to protest at the Association of British Travel Agents plans to hold their 1988 convention in occupied Palestine.

Activists are pictured here displaying a Palestinian flag outside ABTA travel agents in Barking High Street.

* Hand sewn Palestinian flags are on offer from a unit in the Distributist League. See page 9 for details.

We have been asked by the CPR to point out to our readers in these areas that special attention should be paid to the following supporters of the Israel plan: Sam Smith Travel (South Wales). Smith is the Vice Chairman of ABTA's South Wales Region. Hamilton Travel (Belfast). Kennedy Travel (Belfast). Morgan Grampian chain of travel agents. Downham Travel (Bromley).

DON'T GET DE'PRESS'ED - FIGHT BACK!

"We never get fair treatment in the press. The media is biased against us". NF activists often hear statements like this and we have been doing our part in combatting anti-nationalist bias in the media: by exposing the unsavoury background of some anti-NF hacks; by forcing the Press Council to show its unfairness by rejecting constant NF complaints; and by building our own counter-media.

But we would like to do more! One way which we can ensure a fair hearing for the nationalist message is to buy advertizing space, particularly in local and regional newspapers. To enable this the National Directorate has set up a special fund - The NF advertizing Fund - to hammer home the message. All money donated will be used to buy advertizing space, and all donations will be acknowledged in NFN in the usual way.

USE NFN AS A LOCAL WEAPON

NFN Units should keep their eyes open for suitable stories carried in NF News, such as the example below, and use them as the basis for letters to their local papers.

Government computer is Big Brother

FINAL plans are now being made for a massive state computer system which will link the records of the Home Office, Inland Revenue, Customs and DHSS.

Known as the Government Data Network (GDN), it has already been labelled "Big Brother" by worried civil rights groups.

The Government claim that the aim of the GDN is simply to share equipment between the departments to keep down the cost of computerisation. But once people get used to the idea, other departments and state agencies could be linked into the GDN.

The police national computer complex at Hendon is due to be replaced shortly and the equipment chosen for this will almost certainly be compatible with the rest of the Government Data Network.

Just imagine putting police information together with tax, travel and welfare, health and social records.

All they'll have to do to complete the Big Brother network is to add the records of purchases through the credit card system.

The police have a phrase for this drive towards Big Brother, they call it "Social Control". The rest of us must grasp the real name of the destination of the Thatcherite State, "Free-market Fascism". — DAVID GREEN, Organiser, East Ham National Front.

INDEPENDENCE IS A CHANCE TO

BUILD ABOVE THE RUINS

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S decision to sell off the Belfast shipyard, Harland and Wolff, to an Indian businessman, and the plans to dismember and "acid strip" the Shorts aircraft factory is further confirmation that the treacherous British State is gradually severing the last remaining links with Ulster.

It is time for Ulsterfolk to reappraise our constitutional position and our most important consideration must be the preservation of our Ulster national identity. If not, then our enemies aim of a 'United Ireland' and our own extinction will be inevitable.

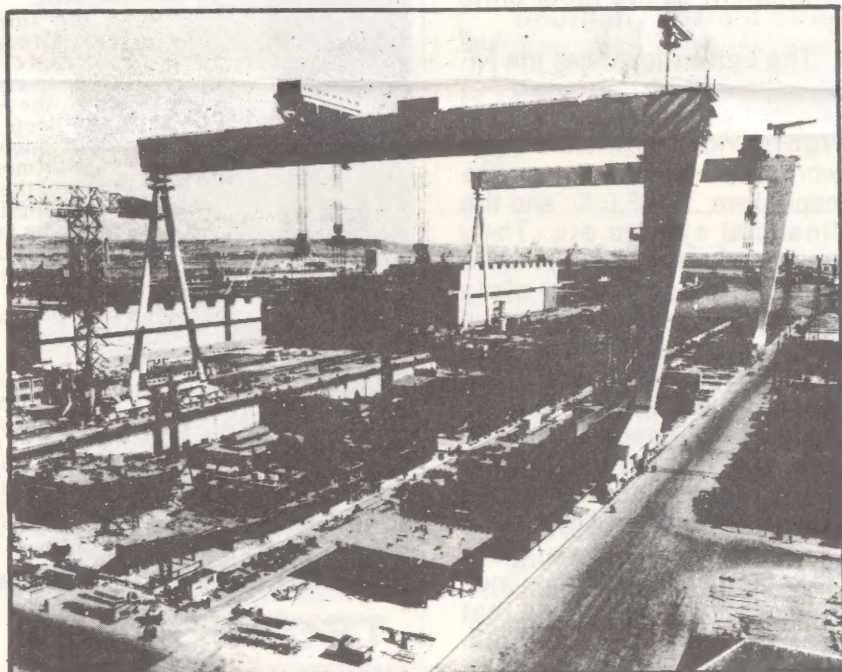

The Hillsborough Agreement not only condemned Ulsterfolk to rule by a junta of foreign governments over which we have no control but it was a clear statement that the British State intends to ditch Ulster as soon as they feel it is possible. These facts must be faced and acted upon if we are to build a future for our children in our ancient homeland.

At present the Ulster nation appears to be on its last legs after twenty years of bombardment on all fronts. Politically, Ulster is bankrupt. Ruled by outsiders with as much of a mandate as totalitarian dictators, her political life rests in an almost permanent stalemate between reactionary Unionism and Gaelic Imperialism.

NO COURAGE

Her 'leaders', having failed abysmally to mount anything like an effective campaign against the Anglo-Irish junta, now seem to have neither the courage nor the foresight to secure us a decent future.

As a result of the insecurity surrounding Ulster's position within the U.K., the social and economic issues that effect our people most sharply are largely ignored. And because none of our political parties forward a coherent economic policy as an alternative, Thatcherism has been allowed to sacrifice large sections of Ulster's industry in the name of Capitalism. With no action taken to prevent unfair competition from foreign imports the social consequences of this economic dessolation and the increasing drift towards materialist thinking are manifest in the growing problems of marriage breakdown, alcoholism and drug abuse.

The Belfast shipyard: Under attack!

However, the greatest threat to the Ulster people still comes from the Republican murder gangs who have virtually a free rein to butcher our folk.

A recent B.B.C.-N. Ireland programme, "The killing fields", brought it home to us all in chilling terms that the heroic people of the border counties have been left at the mercy of these Godless killers for far too long.

BURY THEIR HEADS

Faced with such a nightmarish scenario many will simply despair or bury their heads in the sand, but more and more Ulsterfolk are coming to realize that there does exist a way out of the impasse to a better future - a chance to build upon the ruins of today - in the creation of an independent Ulster. Only when we summon the courage to take this step will we be in a position to tackle our daunting problems.

Of course some will find it impossible to put the long term welfare, and indeed existence, of Ulster before short-term British State subsidies. The question now is: What price Ulster's future?

History, Identity, Culture

IN OUR last issue we took a brief look at the Fenian cycle of mythology and its relevance to Ulster's claim for Independence. In this issue we return again to the Ulster cycle and Cu Chulainn, Champion of Ulster.

The tale of Cu Chulainn's first foray is just one of many in the Ulster cycle that strongly hint not only at Ulster's ancient Independence from the rest of Ireland, but also at how the nation of Ulster, represented by Cu Chulainn, valiantly overcame almost overwhelming odds to retain its freedom and way of life.

Cu Chulainn's first foray.

"After a year and a day of training in warfare under Skatha, Cu Chulainn returned to Ulster, eager to test his powers and to win. So he bade harness his chariot and drove out to make a foray upon the fords and marches of Connacht, for between Connacht and Ulster there was always an angry surf of fighting along the borders.

And first he drove to the White Cairn, which is on the highest of the mountains of Mourne, and surveyed the land of Ulster spread out far below and bade his charioteer tell him the name of every hill and plain and dun that he saw. Then turning southwards he looked over the plains of Bregia, and the charioteer pointed out to him Tara and Teltin, and Brugh na Boyna and the great dun of the sons of Nechtan.

"Are they", asked Cu Chulainn, those sons of Nechtan of whom it is said that more of the men of Ulster have fallen by their hands than are yet living on earth? The same, said the charioteer. Then let us drive thither, said Cu Chulainn.

So, much unwilling, the charioteer drove to the fortress of the sons of Nechtan, and there on the green before it they found a pillar stone, and round it a collar of bronze having writing in Ogham. This Cu Chulainn read, and it declared that any man of age to bear arms who should come to that green should hold its gels for him who departed without having challenged one of the dwellers in the dun to single combat. Then Cu Chulainn flung his arms around the stone, and swaying it backwards and forwards, heaved it at last out of the earth and flung it, collar and all, into the river that ran hard by. Surely, said the charioteer, thou art seeking for a violent death, and now thou wilt find it without delay.

The Foll son of Nechtan came forth from the dun, and seeing Cu Chulainn, who he deemed but a lad, he was annoyed. But Cu Chulainn bade fetch his arms, for I slay not drivers nor messengers nor unarmed men, and Foll went back into the dun.

Thou canst not slay him for he is invulnerable by magic power to the point of any sword or spear.

But Cu Chulainn put in his sling a ball of tempered iron, and when Foll appeared he slung at him so that it struck his forehead, and went clean through his skull, and Cu Chulainn took his head and bound it to the chariot rim.
